

Stephen G. Schwartz, MD, MBA is Professor of Clinical Ophthalmology at the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine and Medical Director of Bascom Palmer Eye Institute at Naples. Previously, he served as Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology and Residency Program Director at Virginia Commonwealth University. He is a graduate of Cornell University, New York University School of Medicine, Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management, and the American Academy of Ophthalmology's Leadership Development Program. He completed residency training at New York University and a retina fellowship at Baylor College of Medicine. He serves on the Editorial Boards of Case Reports in Ophthalmological Medicine, Medicina, and The Scientific World Journal. He is an author or co-author of over 180 articles in peer-reviewed journals (including 30 case reports and small case series), 40 book chapters, and two books. He especially enjoys collaboration with European colleagues.

